

THE CANDIDATES

EXPOND MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS

Several Aldermanic Candidates Give Statements of Their Views

Several of the aldermanic candidates were seen by the Bulletin this morning and asked for statements of their views on municipal questions at issue. The interviews are appended.

ALD. W. A. GIESBACH
"Have you any particular object in view for re-election?"
"Yes," said Mr. Giesbach, "I re-elected to endeavor to give the city as complete fire protection as possible with a reasonable expenditure of public money, and to keep the fire brigade in a high state of efficiency. To assist them in their work, I am in favor of installing a fire alarm system and increased facilities at the power house to permit of sufficient streams of water of adequate force to be used at fires."

"It is regrettable that there has been no provision made in the agreement between the C.N.R. and the city regarding crossings on public thoroughfares. An equitable arrangement should be made whereby the railway company will not be permitted to allow trains to stand on the crossings. Regarding the power of the Government, I understand that the Dominion Government has devoted $100,000 to be expended on a post office. I am not in favor of the city giving the Government a site. Let the Government buy the site and erect the building."

"I would advocate a vigorous policy in regard to public parks. A site should be purchased by the council at once."

"As regards the city charter, we should stand by the spirit of the charter and the principal of government by commission. There is no doubt, however, that it is some respects the charter needs amending."

"I would prefer not expressing myself upon the telephone question, as I am one of the committee appointed to interview the Provincial Government in regard to it."

MR. J. H. CALHOUN
"I should be glad to see if any of the present commissioners of public works should be re-elected. There should be a public works commissioner, a city engineer and a city treasurer to keep the books. These officials should be elected by the council. There should be no money saved to secure to the town the best possible fire protection. He was in favor of having the proposed agreement with the G. T. P. put through at once. There should be two public parks and no money should be spent on public works except such as would prove permanent. A competent man should be employed to look into the telephone system, whose report would be acted upon by the council. The present office should not be located in the city, but in Macdonald street. Instead of putting up the streets for watermain and sewerage the better way would be to utilize the lanes and alleys of the city. He had no personal ends to serve in seeking office as an alderman, but stood for progress and prosperity."

S. H. SMITH
"Mr. Smith speaking in reference to the city charter, felt convinced that many of the citizens did not understand it. While in some details the charter should be amended, yet he believed the main principles of it were right. The telephone system, should be placed on a wider and more efficient basis at once, and to this end an expert should be employed to look into the street railway. He was of the opinion that a line connecting Edmonton and Strathcona would fill a great need and prove a paying investment. He was in favor of municipal ownership."

ALD. J. H. PICARD
"Mr. Picard said he was quite in favor of the present system of city government, but like many other new things, thought there was room for improvement in the city charter. The commissioners should be responsible to the council. He was opposed to continuing the present method of assessment, because in his opinion it was not equitable. He would like to see the proposed agreement with the G. T. P. carried into effect at once, while the city's rights in connection with it should be carefully protected. An up-to-date telephone system should be installed without loss of time, and he believed the city could attain this object by adopting some system in use in other large cities. He stood for municipal ownership of all utilities, being one of the first to advocate this policy, and if elected would use his utmost endeavors to promote the progress and welfare of the city."

THE CITY CHARTER

DISCUSSED LAST EVENING

Ex-Mayor Short Gave an Exposition of the Charter to McDougall Men's Institute

The city charter was the subject of an address delivered last evening by ex-Mayor Short to the men's institute of McDougall church. Mr. Short, president of the institute, presided at the chair, and with a few preliminary remarks, introduced Mr. Short to the audience. In his address, Mr. Short said he would not be able to present the case as he would like to present it, but he would try to present it to them as it appeared to the city council when it was first given to the city. Every citizen has a right to know the rights of another safeguard. There was nothing more difficult than to change our laws. We were going to stand for the old against the new, that perhaps is the controlling principle of the charter. The Anglo-Saxon has a great reverence for law. In Canada conditions are different from those in the mother country. There are questions arising in each of them. The modification of existing laws, in this country are starting things with a clean slate. We are starting at the beginning of things. We stand for law as it should be, not as it is. It would be very difficult to have one general law to suit many municipalities. The conditions in each are different, and the questions arising in each are different. The law should be made to suit local conditions.

The actual making of laws, too, was a great difficulty. Good legal draftsmen are few. It is not enough to know the law, but one must be able to express clearly what is required. When the council came to draft the city charter, they employed a specialist in legal drafting. Our municipal codes previously have been the upgrowth of peculiar conditions. We began at the beginning of things to make our municipal laws as complete as possible. The growing conditions, and our municipal law was a kind of patchwork. The council told the draftsmen to make as complete a codification of the law as possible. He made the charter as simple as he could, and as short as it could be. It is broad in its provisions, and a great deal of "home rule" is contained in it. The charter has not attempted to restrict the council, but to give the council a measure of home rule that is not enjoyed elsewhere. We have made an advance on what we had before, in which always lurks a danger, and if we do not exercise our enlarged powers wisely, the charter will be taken away from us.

Two great departures have been made in the city charter. There is a new method of government and a new method of taxation. Not much fault has been found with the method of taxation, but there has been a great deal of fault found with that of government. Under the old system of municipal government we elected men who attended directly to the executive work of the city. It is useless to expect a business man to give up his business in order to attend to the executive work of the city. And we can't have men to attend to that work who can only give an hour or so a week. We want men who will be continually responsible for the work. In Winnipeg and Toronto the great executive work is in the hands of paid servants, and it is necessary to appoint men to take charge of executive work, and have the sole responsibility for carrying on the work. If they do not do it right the council may discharge them.

The speaker gave several illustrations to show how the commissioners, while having control of all executive work, are yet responsible to the council for that work being done properly. The commissioners brought up propositions from time to time of works to be done in the city. If the council approves of the proposition the commissioners are told to go ahead and complete the work. If a councillor sees that the work is not being done properly, he reports to the council, and if the matter is very serious, the commissioner is responsible for the work is discharged.

A great danger encountered in these days is that of graft. Under our new system of government in Edmonton all means of receiving graft by aldermen has been done away with. If a citizen has a friend upon the council and wishes to be appointed to some office or wishes to sell something to the council, his friend the alderman, cannot obtain that for him as he might have done in the past. The commissioners have control of this work. They are bound to employ the best men and to buy the best material and goods, no matter who they appoint or who they buy from. If an alderman interferes with the commissioners in the interests of his friends, the commissioners may say to him, "We are paid here by the council to perform our work in the best possible way. If we do not carry out that work properly we are discharged. If you will give your best to the city, and the character of this man we may employ him."

The commissioners must be capable and are paid to be honest. They must shoulder the responsibility. The aldermen should give the credit to the commissioners if they do well, and if they do ill, should bring it to the attention of the council, present facts and ask for the dismissal of the commissioners. A little over the majority of the council is required to dismiss a commissioner. This is as a safeguard, and to give a commissioner a reasonable tenure of office. It is always true of a man who has his duty that he will not be content. It would not take much of a crusade against a commissioner to turn him out of office on account of unpopularity, if some safeguard had not been provided.

The charter provides that the chief commissioner be elected by the people. This is the mayor. This is for the purpose of keeping the commissioners in touch with the people. The mayor is the man who is directly responsible to the people. He must follow the dictates of the public. This is the only city in which the commissioners are directly responsible to the people. In other places they are appointed for a term of years, here they are appointed at pleasure and may be discharged for incapacity as well as misconduct. It is impossible to have continuity of plan under the old system of government. Then aldermen were being elected year by year. One man who had a plan for parks was in one year, and would formulate a plan for good parks. Next year he would be turned out, and a man who had a plan for municipal ownership comes in. Under the new system some continuity of plan has been provided.

Regarding the system of taxation Mr. Short said little, as there had been little fault found with it. The old system of income tax had been found very unsatisfactory. It was impossible to find out the income of business men generally, and they resented the assessor prying into their business matters, and there were a good many ways in which the assessor was deceived. The new system of floor space tax had proved an improvement.

Mr. Short in closing said that he would be glad to explain any matter which had not appeared, quite clear to those present.

A vote of thanks was tendered the speaker by Messrs. Dr. Jamieson and Alex. Batchart, and the singing of the national anthem closed the evening's proceedings.

THE PEACE RIVER COUNTRY

An Ottawa despatch to the Toronto Globe says: Interesting reports of the physical character and the natural resources of the Peace River country and some other northern regions, to penetrate which was at one time considered no mean achievement, are given in the occasional reports from the commanders of the Mounted Police to the department here. A flying glimpse at the reports which come to hand this morning affords some reason for hoping that some of these districts, at the present time far remote from civilization, may eventually be opened up for settlement or development.

At Fort St. John, the halting place of the party of police who are constructing a wagon road to Teslin, some prospectors exhibited to Inspector Richards specimens of gold which had been taken from the Peace and Finlay rivers. Veins of coal were also noticed. At Peace River crossing a crop of 800 acres of wheat yielded 6,000 bushels of number one hard, realizing $1.50 a bushel.

The Dominion Fish Co., which is really an American concern, has abandoned operations on Lesser Slave Lake, and the Indians and halfbreed settlers are therefore greatly relieved. Last winter this company carried on fishing during the winter and had 900 horses hauling the frozen fish to Edmonton. This fish found its way to the markets of New York, Chicago and other cities of the United States. Conducted on this scale, the supply of fish in the Lesser Slave Lake would soon be depleted.

The harvest around Lesser Slave Lake has been good, and, generally speaking, hay, oats and garden crops have been abundant and sufficient for the needs of the inhabitants. At Fort St. John, on October 11, sunflowers and pumpkins, planted by the Hudson's Bay employees, were still growing in the open air, also fresh lettuce and radishes, and splendid vegetables, were raised by the same people, including potatoes weighing two pounds.

Inspector Richards spoke most hopefully of the future of the country between Fort St. John and Peace River crossing.

Commenting on the despatch editorially the Globe says:

In a special Ottawa despatch in another column will be found some interesting facts regarding the natural resources of the Peace River district. The Fort St. John mentioned by Mounted Police officers is on the British Columbian side of the water parting, but the Peace River flows through a very low pass in the Rocky Mountains into the province of Alberta, the northern part of which it crosses to empty into the Mackenzie River. The hay, oats and garden crops at the Fort were grown above the fifty-sixth parallel, almost five hundred miles from the international boundary. Presumably, if sunflowers and pumpkins were growing in the open air at the middle of October they may be produced equally successfully to the east of the Rockies. More important still is the information that at the Peace River crossing in the same latitude, six thousand bushels of No. 1 hard wheat were produced on a farm of three hundred acres. An average of twenty bushels of the highest grade of wheat to the acre cannot be easily beaten anywhere in the Northwest.

For some unstated reason the Dominion Fish Company, which exported immense quantities of frozen fish last winter to the United States, has abandoned operations this season on the Lesser Slave Lake, which is the expansion of the Peace River. This announcement raises more than one interesting question. If the Dominion Fish Company is not a "company" it is a very hard, fast, and comprehensive organization. It has been doing its best for years to swallow up or crush out all independent fishery operators on the Georgian Bay and Lake Huron, and it might be worth while for the Dominion Government to inquire whether its operations have been quite in harmony with the best interests not merely of the Lesser Slave residents, but of the people of Canada as a whole. It might be that matter, be a good thing to enlarge the scope of the investigation sufficiently to include all the Canadian waters over which this company exercises a real or virtual monopoly. Canadian people like to get a fair share of Canadian fish at fair prices.

The fact that the latest information about northern Alberta comes to us incidentally from a Mounted Police detachment sent out on a road-making expedition, suggests the expediency of encouraging, if not requiring, the officers of the force, wherever a detachment is located, to send reports as frequent, as detailed, and as accurate as they can be made. The results of careful topographical, agricultural and horticultural experiments would be of far more value than the observations of an occasional official explorer, who does not stay long enough in the region to ascertain what can be accomplished by cultivation of such soil in such a climate.

The Men who Solicit Your Vote

MR. CUSHING'S

STREET RAILWAY QUESTION

I shall strongly urge the council to prompt action in regard to this question. There is danger in keeping the question open for any considerable time. In the public interest the council should, without unnecessary delay, commit the city as far as possible to the principle and policy of public ownership. To do this effectively the system of a road should be planned and constructive operations begun next year.

The present rapid growth of the city justifies this and if the street railway does not say at the beginning that conditions will not just long, I am in favor of deferring the question of the city's position in regard to the tramway charter, if necessary, to the council for decision. It is important that we should know beyond question where we stand in this matter.

CITY PARKS

The consideration of this question and well planned action should take place at an early date. It would be good business to consider it in relation to the tramway system. Private companies operating tramways find that it pays them to own and equip park and pleasure grounds in connection with their tram lines. This should be kept in view in choosing park sites. As an officer of the board of trade, I urge the necessity of action in the matter. The longer the question is postponed the more difficult and expensive its solution will be.

RE TELEPHONES

It is imperative that an up-to-date system of telephones be installed with the least possible delay. The council should first of all decide the policy to be adopted in regard to connections with other towns and cities and the rural districts. Then, with the information already at hand and with the aid of expert advice they should decide what system to adopt and begin operations as early as possible next spring.

THE GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC RAILWAY

Nothing can be gained by leaving this question any longer unsettled. If railway authorities will not meet here we should send a deputation to them with power to settle the question in the best manner possible.

RE THE COMMISSIONERS

The provision in our city charter in regard to the commissioners and their duties should be upheld. I should insist that complete reports in regard to all the city's work should be in file for the information of the council. The aldermen should criticize the work of the commissioners where they deem it necessary and the latter should be held strictly responsible to the former. If after careful investigation a commissioner is found unfit for his office no question of sentiment or friendship should stand in the way of his removal.

BETTER ORGANIZATION NEEDED

Too much importance cannot be attached to the proper organization of the different departments of the city's service. The duty of each regular officer should be outlined in written form. He should keep a complete record of the work of the employees under him and should be held accountable for the proper discharge of his duties and of his own. Care should be taken that there may be no overlapping of the duties of different men as has been charged in the past. The whole executive machine should be adjusted so that there may be the least possible friction and so that every public servant may be encouraged to do his best in the city's interest. My experience in business has shown me the immense importance of systematic organization and if elected this shall receive my special attention.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT
Good progress has been made this year in this important department of the city's service. Every reasonable demand for the improvement of the department should be promptly met and the work of men who are devoting themselves to this service should be appreciated by all and encouraged in every proper way.

PROGRESS

There are several other questions of interest and importance, but as will be seen from the foregoing, I stand for progress along all lines consistent with the city's finances. The bright future of our city is assured, but it is necessary if we are to obtain and retain our premier position as indeed the capital city of this province that a vigorous and progressive municipal policy be carried out.

A. T. CUSHING.

VOTE AND INFLUENCE

For Mayor for 1906

I stand for:

- Improved management of civic affairs
- Amendments to the city charter and less powers to Commissioners
- Standardizing and extending telephone system
- Extension of sewerage and water works

CHAS. MAY.

SOME OF MR. MAY'S PROPOSED
AMENDMENTS TO THE CITY CHARTER.

1. Amendment to entitle lease holders and others paying considerable taxes to vote and be exempt from poll tax.
2. POLL TAX. Reduce amount and make three months' residence necessary.
3. Make council chamber clean and purchase park sites.
4. In case of resignation or other vacancy on council, vacancy to be filled by vote of the ratepayers.
5. More control of commissioners. Insist on monthly reports from them or whenever called on, showing what they have done in the past month and what they propose to do for the succeeding month. In this way the council is kept fully informed, the responsibility is assumed by the council and the mere details could be left to the commissioners who would however, be relieved from the larger share of responsibility.
6. Auditor to make monthly audit.
7. Amendment to authorize expropriation of coal mining rights under the city.
8. Licenses to be reduced to a nominal amount in classes of business calling inspection, except where the class licensed wish a license for their own protection.

CHAS. MAY.

ROUTE MAY BE CHANGED

Ottawa, Dec. 5.—Messrs. Hays, Morse and Wainwright of the Grand Trunk Pacific were here today and had a long interview with the Premier and Mr. Parent, chairman of the transcontinental. The Winnipeg terminal were taken over and Mr. Morse says that he expects shortly new surveys including changes of the route from Edmonton to Saskatoon. They will be placed before the minister of railways and then no time will be lost in their adoption.

FATAL WRECK OFF NOVA SCOTIA

Halifax, Dec. 6.—In a blinding snow storm and in a gale that raised an awful sea, the Nova Scotia steamship, Lunenburg, struck a rock off Amherst, an island of the Magdalen group, on Monday and eleven passengers perished. One of the drowned is R. J. Leslie of Halifax, a member of the Quebec legislature for the Magdalen Islands, and mining director of the company that owned the Lunenburg. Besides Mr. Leslie there was one other passenger on board, a merchant of the Magdalen Islands.
